Course Description

Grammar:

Follows a communicative approach to help students learn the rules and functions of grammar. Students also bridge the gap between understanding English grammar theory and applying grammar correctly in speaking and writing.

Communication:

Is a theme-based class designed to teach students the characteristics of native-speaker communication, enabling them to communicate in a fluent and natural way. The class also teaches students functional language and expressions that will enable them to converse clearly in a variety of everyday situations. Students will also practice body language, tone, and use of the correct register for a given situation.
